FIFTY-SECOND YEAR No. 6.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 18, 1929

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS, O.—With the inauguration of Governor Myers Y. Cooper Monday the Republican party is again in control of governmental affairs in the state of Ohio, only two other Republican governors having been elected in the last twenty years, the late Senator Frank B. Willis in 1914 and Harry L. Davis of Cleveland in 1920. The late John M. Pattison of Dayton was elected in the fall of 1905 by the Democrats and died shortly after assuming office in 1906. He was succeeded by Lieutenant Governor Andrew L. Harris, a Republican, whose term was extended to the second Monday in January, 1909, by a constitutional amendment. Judson Harmon then served four years and in turn was succeeded by Governor Jas. M. Cox, who was defeated by Governor Willis in 1914, and the former was again elected in 1916 and served a second and third term, being succeeded in 1920 by Governor Davis. Governor Davis followed the latter for three successive terms.

Ex-Governor Vic Donahey and part of his family are now comfortably ensconced in their home at Indian Lake, a new house of sixteen rooms lately finished. It takes a large house when the family get together for reunion for there are ten children, boys and four girls, with two of the girls and one boy married, and there are several grandchildren. For the present Governor and Mrs. Donahey a daughter and two sons will occupy the home. The Governor will drive to this city several times a week to look after his new duties as head of a automobile insurance company. Three of his sons, Hal, John and Jimmy, have leased a flat in the Capital City and will engage in business here while another son is attending school in Boston, Mass.

Director John E. Manger, who is retiring as head of the State Department of Health, has been the recipient of numerous commendations for his supervision of that most important branch of state government. One of the pressing problems against the prevalence of contagious influenza which has been sweeping the state and which in the last few weeks has grown more serious with its heaviest death toll in the young and the old. Director Manger states that there is a danger zone of at least five feet around every one who has the disease in any stage or degree, warning every one to keep out of that zone to avoid the spray avoid shaking hands and boil for at least ten minutes, all tableware used by a patient.

The emergency appropriation measure has been passed by the legislature and state employees are happy having received their pay, the first they have had since December 22nd. Bills are being dropped into the hopper at a rapid rate. Some of the important bills are the drivers license law, to recodify the election laws, to take over general law enforcement, create department of public safety to new blue sky law, repeal of the Fence law, creation of rural highway police system, reduction of gasoline tax from three to two cents, habitual criminal act, providing when Armistice day falls on Sunday the next day shall be a holiday and providing that in presidential years the state and national primaries shall be held in May.

The proposed new state office building has bobbed up again in the legislative halls with the introduction of a measure by Representative Gilbert Morgan of Cleveland. He would finance the new structure up to $5,000,000 from the teachers retirement fund, the money to be returned within twenty years and the site to be in South Third street across from the State House.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Chalmers R. Wilson have selected the colors for the 1930 license plates, maroon back ground with white numerals, giving a rich effect pleasing to the eye. Thirteen hundred tons of steel will be used in the manufacture of 1,900,000 plates, the original order, which may be increased to 2,000,000 before the end of the year. It will take 8,000 gallons of maroon paint and 1,000 gallons of white. The plates will be made by convict labor at the Ohio Penitentiary and will cost the state of Ohio ten cents per pair for shipment.

FUNDERBERG GETS BIG FARM
L. J. Funderberg, former sheriff in this county, has purchased the Houston farm in Ross township from Lawrence Laybourne, Springfield, trustee. The farm comprises 218 acres and the purchase price was $18,500.

Lecture Course Number Was Very Pleading

The third number of the lecture course proved to be one of the best attractions that has visited Cedarville in a number of years. The Schubert Male Quartette consisting of four men and a lady accompanist made a decided hit in the manner in which they rendered a fine program last Friday night. The first half of the program was devoted to classical numbers in which the writings of Franz Schubert predominated. The second half was semi-classical with numbers that enabled the company to display their talent and highly entertain the audience. The company we felt sure would receive a warm welcome for a return date in the future.

Greene County On Proposed Improvement

The Ohio Good Roads Federation has proposed a six year building program for improving roads in the state. The cost is placed at $144,000,000. Each county in the state gets some of the program and the following what Greene County is slated for: GREENE COUNTY, $784,000; United States Route 42, widen seven miles, Xenia-Cedarville, now 16-foot macadam, $105,000. Route 11, rebuild 6 miles, Zimmerman-Montgomery county, now 18-foot macadam, $60,000 and widen 3.2 miles. Zimmerman-Alpha, now 16-foot macadam, $32,000. Route 53, rebuild 8.4 miles, sections A, B and C out of Xenia now 14 and 15-foot macadam, $210,000, and widen nine miles, Xenia-Clark County, now 14-foot concrete, $72,000. Route 235, build hard surface 2.4 miles, Oldtown-Airfield, $75,000. Bridges, $150,000 municipal parts $80,000.

Big Snow In Eleven Years

This section along with almost the entire state was blanketed early Tuesday morning with a heavy snow that measured around six inches. It was a rare occurrence of the winter. The highway department Tuesday used road scrapers in clearing the Columbus pike to keep the road open for traffic. Automobiles and trucks had little trouble getting about. The drop in temperature to zero on Monday with a high east wind caused a rush of business at garages as many cars failed to respond due to the cold weather. In cold weather drain valves clog and keep fresh oil in the crankcases. More cars are ruined by poor oil or moisture in oil than by water freezing in the radiators.

Mrs. Hilda Galvin Died Saturday

Mrs. Hilda Galvin, 78, widow of W. S. Galvin, late Ohio publisher, died at her home in Jamestown Saturday at 8 o'clock. She was the mother of Roy Galvin, publisher of the Lima News, and John Galvin, publisher of the Wilmington News-Journal, and had a wide acquaintance in this neighborhood. Mrs. Galvin's husband founded the Greene County Journal at Jamestown 58 years ago. Surviving Mrs. Galvin besides her sons are four daughters, Mrs. E. F. Simson, St. Marys; Mrs. W. H. Page, Wilmington; Mrs. Fred Ziegler, Wilmington, and Miss Marjorie Galvin, at home.

Tarbox, Al Swaby, and Robert Elder, who is president of the institution. L. F. Tindall was re-elected cashier in the organization. Dr. Marsh is chairman of the Board of Directors.

SCHOOL NEWS

Basketball Games

Cedarville High School Boys' and Girls' basketball teams are making up for the time they lost before vacation. The boys and girls encountered Ross teams last Friday night on the Ross floor. This game was the first game of this season for the boys and the second for the girls. The girls game was a fight from the beginning until the final whistle blew, and the game ended with a score of 4 to 4. The forwards had bad luck on their shots but that may be remedied. The boys game was almost a duplicate of last year's game—the main difference being that Ross came out ahead. The final score was 26-29.

Saturday night Cedarville's two teams played the teams of New Moorfield in Clark County. Cedarville girls won over New Moorfield by a score of 23-10. The game was not over-exciting but was very interesting. The boys' game brought the excitement, our boys being beaten by a score of 21-20. The score was close enough to make both teams speed up in the last quarter and fight until the final whistle. We have heard that New Moorfield boys have not been beaten for the last three years. We had the satisfaction of saying that one more basket on our part would have beaten them.

This Friday night Cedarville Boys and Girls will meet the Bryan High School Basketball Ball players at Yellow Springs. Two exciting games are expected.

Rev. Jamieson Speaks
We were honored by a talk given by Rev. Jamieson of Miamitown, Ill., last Friday afternoon during our regular chapel period. Because of the hearty cooperation of all concerned, we are planning to publish an annual of forty-eight pages. We had considered at the first of the year the twenty-four page book year.

Gilbert Cooper Now In Columbus Pen

Gilbert Cooper, who was given a life sentence with mercy for shooting Caleb Hitchcock last November, was denied a new trial and was taken to the Ohio penitentiary Tuesday by Sheriff Ohmer Tate. Attorney Frank L. Johnson announces that he will file an appeal in the Court of Appeals asking for a new trial on the grounds of error in procedure and that the evidence did not warrant an excessive verdict as rendered by the jury.

HIGHLIGHTS OF GOV. COOPER'S MESSAGE TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Gov. Myers Y. Cooper outlined his program before the eighty-eighth general assembly of Ohio in session Tuesday.

The tendency to regulate by legislation should be avoided except when absolutely necessary for the common good.

Industrial prosperity and the happiness and well-being of our citizens are dependent largely upon a sound business policy in dealing with distribution of money supplied by the people for operation of the government.

I do not advocate parsimony in government. Such an attitude is neither in interest of economy nor favorable to progress.

It is to be expected that the total cost of our state government for the next two years will exceed the total cost thereof for the past two years.

The people are entitled to adequate (utility) services at reasonable cost and at the same time the public utilities are entitled to fair rate on capital investment.

The only justification that has ever been offered for the Pence utility law was the claim that it was necessary because of delays of procedure in securing a final order from the utilities commission.

The ultimate goal in road construction is a serviceable highway for each citizen of the state, regardless of where he lives.

It is the duty of the state to discover, prevent and punish fraud and deception in the issuance and sale of securities. This can be done without unduly restricting the activities of honest men dealing in honest securities.

Ohio is one of the greatest industrial states of the nation and has a living and vital interest in the prosperity of its industries and mercantile establishments.

The administration of criminal justice is one of the highest functions of government and of the greatest concern to the people of the state.

The ballot box must be kept inviolate, and our election laws should be amended so as to safeguard its integrity. The will of freedom is expressed through the ballot box and that will, must and shall be correctly interpreted and recorded.

AUDITOR WEAD SUGGESTS EDUCATION

As Best Means of Enforcement of Dry Laws and Gives His Views in Durant Contest Plan

County Auditor R. O. Wead has some good suggestions in his plan for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment which he submitted in the W. C. Durant contest. While his suggestions do not meet a prize according to the views of the judges yet put out of the dominant idea was that education was the greatest aid needed in support of the prohibition cause.

While he draws a vivid picture of the needs today along educational lines he also offers suggestions much along the lines that Governor Cooper will endeavor to enforce through the re-organized prohibition enforcement department in this state. There has been much application of effort along the line of enforcement which gave every opportunity for officials to hedge and frequently there was a clash of authority between officers. The governor does not believe in a host of prohibition agents covering the state but he does insist on local and county officials being more active and they alone being held accountable to the state and subject of removal from office if their service is not satisfactory.

There are many who have believed that no army of prohibition agents at what ever cost to the country it might carry, could probably secure any better enforcement than would fewer men on the pay roll. The south never gave up slavery and the belief that such was wrong until the south was educated that it was illegal to uphold slavery. In this education was the necessary factor and County Auditor Wead in his plan has suggested what thousands of citizens believe—that education is the one needed plan creating respect for the Eighteenth Amendment. His views are as follows:

"The nation as a whole looks upon the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment as the paramount issue of the day. It is an issue that cannot be solved to completion in one or two administrations. It will be a live issue until public opinion is educated to the point where it will frown upon the violation of this amendment and where those who do not obey it will be universally treated as law-breakers and have the stigma of disgrace placed upon them. This process of education must be directed and the force behind it must be of a kindred mind with the real spirit of the Amendment itself.

"An enforcement organization which is out of sympathy with the law will not be effective.

"An enforcement organization the chief function of whose department is in no way connected with either the letter or the spirit of the law will not be effective.

"An organization whose numerous principal duties are related to other very important governmental functions, will not be effective.

"The only permanently effective organization for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment is one whose duties in all of its activities will correlate in the education of the people and their compulsion to obedience.

"This type of organization is the only type that can ever be efficient in producing for our nation a temperate and law-abiding people. This type of organization will eventually produce people who will obey the law because it is productive of good government to obey law, and productive of anarchy not to obey law. An organization

REPUBLICANS IN FULL CONTROL STATE AFFAIRS

For the first time since 1923 the Republican party in Ohio is now in control of state affairs. Governor Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati was inaugurated governor Monday in a blaze of glory despite the zero weather that prevailed.

Elaborate preparations had been made for the ceremony with pomp and splendor by the Columbus Chamber of Commerce. It was a revival of inaugurations such as the state had formerly witnessed until the advent of Governor Vic Donahey, who rejected a formal reception.

With the city decorated in colors and the site of bands and military detachments, the crowd only remained outside long enough to witness the formal ceremony. Shelter was sought for a peek at the parade where one was hidden from the biting cold.

The reception to Gov. Cooper in the State House were formal in every respect and high hats and fashionable clothes were strictly in evidence.

The festivities of the day closed with a press smother in the large hall room of the Noll House when more than 2,000 persons gathered to witness a long established custom of entertainment that lasted long into the night.

Governor Cooper in his brief inaugural address created an impression on his hearers that was convincing and that Ohio is to have an economic administration. He has selected men of prominence and experience for the different stations in his cabinet. He will have a legislature elected under Republican leadership and this insures more harmony than has existed the past six years.

Gov. Donahey retires from public life and has left the way open since the election that Gov. Cooper might not have complications to contend with. With his passing, Donahey leaves an unusual record in having served three successive terms as governor and previously had served eight years as state auditor. Donahey will become head of an insurance company with headquarters in Cincinnati.

With the new administration Greene county will have a representative heading a state department. John W. Prugh of Xenia has been appointed by Gov. Donahey as head of the Building and Loan department, a position he held formerly under Gov. Harry Davis.

Gov. Cooper addressed his message to the legislature in session Tuesday. He will insist on certain new laws to meet situations not now covered and will also urge the repeal of a number, especially the infamous Fence Law, that has been a public issue for more than five years.

Welfare Conference Thursday, January 31

The Greene County Committee, which will be in charge of arrangements for the District Child Welfare Conference to be held in Xenia, Thursday, January 31, is announced by Louis Hammerle, Superintendent of Schools. Mr. Hammerle is General Chairman of the Tri-County Conference Committee.

The Conference is to be held at the First Methodist Church, Xenia, and will be the third of 28 Tri-County District Child Welfare Conferences which will be conducted the first half of 1929. These Conferences are under the direct supervision of the Division of Charities, Department of Public Welfare. In conjunction with the Division of Charities are the Ohio Society for Crippled Children and the Ohio Probation Association.

Greene, Clinton, and Fayette Counties will participate in the Xenia Conference, to which the public is invited. The program will be of especial interest to public officials, ministers, club women, educators, social workers, American Legion members and service club men.

The key note of the Conference will be the preservation of the home as a preventive of juvenile dependency and delinquency. Under this subject will be discussed the four agencies which should be cooperating to keep the child in his own home, namely, the church, the school, the juvenile court, and the social agency.

The following persons are members of the Greene County Committee: Louis Hammerle, Xenia; Harvey C. Crowell, Osborn; Mrs. A. G. Swinerton, Yellow Springs; Dr. Ben R. McClellan, Xenia; Rev. H. B. McCrear, Xenia; Rev. Wm. H. Tilford, Xenia; Mrs. Charles Adair, Xenia; Judge S. C. Wright, Xenia.

Now is the time for all good housewives to see to it that their families get and eat some sort of vegetable.

A FARM PROBLEM

The Harris bill, which practically excludes Mexican common labor from the United States, has been unanimously reported for passage at Washington.

The common labor supply on farms in the southwestern part of the United States is a serious problem and Mexican labor which comes in to harvest the seasonal crops and which returns to Mexico when the rush is over, seems to be the principal source of supply. It is estimated that 70,000 such laborers are used each year, while under the proposed legislation this number would be cut down to about 1200.

It is stated by persons in authority who have dealt with Mexican common labor, that it does not compete with white labor and that biologically and otherwise it is preferable to Philippine, Porto Rican and Negro labor. In the sugar beet fields, in mines and on the railroad section gangs in the semiarid sections of the Southwest no other labor seems able to stand the heat as well as the Mexicans.

The problem is a serious one and deserving of the fullest investigation and consideration free from prejudice or political pressure.

ALWAYS A FLOOD OF COSTLY BILLS OFFERED

With every session of legislature, whether in Ohio or some other state, there is always a hopper full of costly bills thrown into the legislative machine and of course some are finally enacted. Two bills that are now receiving a good bit of publicity are the license for all drivers of automobiles which would take from the pockets of auto owners more than two million dollars. Another bill is known as a rural police measure that provides for not more than 200 men to patrol the roads in Ohio. These men must have salaries of substantial amounts and the state must invest in motorcycles or automobiles and stand the expense of upkeep.

We are not saying that either bill should not become a law. The auto driver's license law is proposed as a means to curb reckless driving on the part of irresponsible persons. Also those who drive while intoxicated. The bill has many good features and is being sponsored by motor clubs and other organizations. The constant drain on automobile owners seems to be on the increase. Upkeep has made a noticeable depression in the retail business world. Money goes for anything pertaining to the motor car while many other lines suffer. Should this bill become a law we would prefer to have the money received from license fees divided with the taxing districts on the basis of the gasoline tax. As the bill stands it provides that the tax collected be used to enforce the law. That means a host of officials in every county in Ohio. Meanwhile we have a law that takes care of the intoxicated driver. We also have one regulating reckless driving and courts have the power to penalize the driver and emend the machine.

The highway patrol bill also has good features. It looks best to the politicians and permits a branch of a political machine. It is said that states having such a law have better law enforcement. Dry advocates think it would aid prohibition enforcement. A survey of three states might throw some light on the subject. New York state has such a law and yet the state is listed as wet. Thousands of loads of Canadian liquor are hauled over New York highways to the towns and cities. If the rural police is an effective organization why all this complaint about Canadian liquor coming into that state? Pennsylvania is another state that has the rural patrol law. Recent developments in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia would indicate that citizens in that state were having little protection and that evidently that highway police were not in sympathy with prohibition enforcement.

State and federal officers contend most of the Canadian liquor that comes into Ohio comes by way of Detroit. Michigan has a system of road patrol and advocates of such a measure usually cite that state as an example for its success. Evidently there is no patrol from Detroit to the Ohio line or Canadian liquor could not be trucked in great quantities for distribution in Ohio. Three years ago we had a personal experience in driving into Michigan. From the Ohio line to Port Huron were never once had sight of the road patrolman and the drive was over an improved highway. We had the same experience in driving across the state from Mt. Clemens to Benton Harbor over an improved road. We did get first sight of the state police in Mt. Clemens where we found six officers and six motorcycles parked in a prominent place in that city, which seemed to be headquarters. In a three day stay in Mt. Clemens we found public opinion greatly divided on the merit of the highway patrol system.

Before such a bill is passed in Ohio there should be careful investigations made. Two hundred men at a salary of $150 a month means an expense to the state of $30,000 a month without the cost of upkeep of 200 machines. It makes no difference where the money comes from, it must be raised by some sort of a tax on the state. Will the expense justify the experiment in view of what is happening in the states just mentioned above?

NATURE MONTH BY MONTH—JANUARY

By Prof. Allen C. Conger, of the Department of Zoology,
Ohio Wesleyan University

JANUARY—the month of Janus, length is readily distinguished from that of the Promethea. The latter is smaller and swings by a slender stalk. The pale rays of its weak sun can not arouse activity in most of Nature's children and hibernation and migration have robbed us of many of our interesting neighbors. As the retreating ocean tide brings new discoveries to the seaside visitor so the ebb of life in winter reveals stories of the past and future for the sharp eyes of the nature lover to discover. The green robe Nature wears in summer has now been cast aside and in the leafless trees and shrubs about us we may find mute evidence of the cunning ingenuity of our feathered friends. In guarding their tender young from a cruel world of elements and enemies. Last summer's nests are already weather-beaten but this often only makes more apparent the weaver's skill.

In a Norway maple not far from the favorite perch of a Hummingbird last summer, we now can see the dainty cup where the tiny young were cradled. Bits of gray lichen still cling to its exterior and the sheen of satin still gleams in its lining. Small wonder that so inconspicuous a home should have escaped our search when foliage shielded it. A trip through a nearby neglected orchard reveals many nests not found during the summer season. First a shallow gray felted cup of the Gold-finch, lined with its ever-present down. Not twenty feet away in a low shrub is a bulky nest of twigs and weed-stalks, with many roots and a lining of rootlets. It must have been the home of the Brown Thrasher, that whistled his varied song from the tip-top of a nearby elm. What at first appears to be only a cluster of dead leaves in a blackberry tangle is really the cottage home of an Indigo Bunting. Its leaves which cover its exterior are caught in a web of grass and plant fibers and the cup is lined with roots and grasses. A very deep cup of felted gray fibers is the work of a Yellow Warbler. So often is this bird persecuted by the rangers of the woods that two-story and even three-story nests are not infrequently the upper stories having been added to cover the eggs of the feathered parasite.

A trip through leafless woodlands or brushy tangles will furnish new discoveries on every side. Not infrequently the identification of our birds will be impossible but the nests of many birds are so distinctive that we may assign them to particular species. Thus we are searching for other nests of silk and leaf will doubtless attract our attention. These tell no story of the past but hold a tale of future promise—of beautiful brown-winged creatures as large as some of our birds. They are the winter homes of the giant silk-worms. Hardly a reader but has, during childhood, watched with breathless interest the emergence of these beauties from specimens brought into the school-room.

Most frequently found is the large brown cocoon of the Cecropia moth. So varied is its choice of food that we may find them in willows, apples, maples, wild cherries—in almost any of our deciduous trees and in many shrubs. This cocoon, which is tightly fastened to a twig for its entire length is readily distinguished from that of the Promethea. The latter is smaller and swings by a slender stalk. In fact they are often found still unwrapped in the curled leaf in which they were spun. Two other species, the Polyphemus and the Luna, spin their winter homes in a leaf wrapper, but these cocoons fall to the ground and only sharp eyes and the best of good fortune will bring them to the attention of the collector. The emergence of the pale green robe Nature wears in summer is an event rarely witnessed. The cocoons of these moths and any others of the group may be "forced" indoors to an early maturity. The snow and winter rains are lacking here and the dry air of heated rooms will make an occasional sprinkling of the cocoons almost necessary. If one prefers, they may be stored in a cool place and the emergence of the moths deferred until warm weather. At that season, if a female moth is released inside a screened window, the male moths may come, often in almost incredible numbers, to flutter about milady's latticed window. In several instances known to the writer, a score of moths have thus appeared, drawn from the open country to city streets to which they were quite alien.

These cocoons of which we are writing are all spun by large crawling, worm-like caterpillars, usually quite repulsive to most observers. What a mystery is here—a veritable miracle—for from these silken cells emerge glorious wood fairies with wings painted with brown and tan and cream and green. Only another of those wonders which pass all too often unnoticed by a busy world.

SETTLEMENT AUTHORIZED

An application filed by David R. Hopping, an executor of the estate of Boyd G. Hopping, deceased, for authority to compromise and settle a claim of the estate against Ralph Horney and Mary Horney, for $500 has been granted by Probate Court.

The court also authorized the executor to surrender notes and cancel a mortgage held against the Horneys.

One paragraph says that, if girls don't wear 'em longer this winter, there is going to be a lot of "kneecapping." Now that the legislature is in session why not have some "legislation" covering the subject?

When United States Led

At the close of the Civil war the United States had more naval ships than any country in the world. At that time the United States had 671 ships, 6,010 guns; Great Britain, 628 ships, 8,478 guns.

GRANTED DIVORCE

On grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty Bessie Palmer has been awarded a divorce from Aas Palmer in Common Pleas Court. The plaintiff was also ordered restored to her former name of Bessie Barry.

APPOINTED EXECUTORS

Dora Conklin, Clyde Conklin and Cora Bales have been appointed executors of the estate of H. H. Conklin, late of Xenia city, in Probate Court. Bond is dispensed with under terms of the will. A. E. Faulkner, C. R. Bales and R. O. Wead were named appraisers.

The
of Chevrolet History
—a Six in the price range of the four!

represents 4 years of Development and over a Million miles of Testing

Years ago, the Chevrolet Motor Company designed and built its first experimental six-cylinder motor. This far-sighted step was taken because Chevrolet engineers knew that the six-cylinder motor is inherently the most perfectly balanced motor—the ideal power plant to meet the growing public demand for greater reserve power, faster get-away and, above all—smooth, quiet performance.

During the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground.

Day and night, through winter's cold and summer's heat, the incessant testing went on—until the present motor was developed and finally pronounced correct.

At the same time other Chevrolet engineers were perfecting other parts of the chassis. And another great automotive organization—the Fisher Body Corporation—was devoting its gigantic resources to the creation of the finest, sturdiest and most beautiful bodies ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

As a result, the Outstanding Chevrolet offers an order of well-balanced excellence—a combination of performance, comfort, beauty and handling ease that is truly remarkable—with a fuel-economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

You owe it to yourself to see and inspect this remarkable car. Come in today!

MOST IMPORTANT GROUP OF MOTOR CAR BUYERS

Certain American people are getting on in the world. Many of them are just starting. But they're headed up the ladder. Their ideas of luxury and beauty are expanding. They want finer homes, finer furniture, finer automobiles.

During the past three years, hundreds of thousands of these progressive Americans have been buying the Pontiac Six. Some of them have bought it as the first car they ever owned. But to most of them, Pontiac has represented the first big step up from the lowest priced field.

For this progressive group, Oakland has now created a brand new Pontiac Six. It represents an even greater advancement over everything else in its field today than the original Pontiac represented in 1926. It will take its buyers farther than ever up the ladder of motor car quality in one step. Watch for the

Farm Bureau Meeting Next Week

The "biggest and best" Annual County Farm Bureau meeting in the history of the organization, is the slogan being used by the Program Committee in arranging for the all-day agricultural conference on next Tuesday, January 22. The meeting will be held in the Assembly Room of the Court House, Xenia, and will begin promptly at 10:00 A. M.

The organization is exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure L. B. Palmer president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation as one of the main speakers for that day. Mr. Palmer, who was raised on a farm and is in close touch with agricultural conditions, will be heard with interest by his many Greene County friends. L. D. Kingsbury of the Eastern State Company, and who is scheduled as speaker on the afternoon's program, is in close touch with cooperative livestock marketing, and will bring some interesting facts to his hearers. Although Mr. Kingsbury has not previously appeared before Greene County audiences, yet he will prove a most interesting speaker. Mr. Kingsbury has been with this movement since its organization and is well acquainted with the cooperative marketing plan.

Reports showing the growth of the affiliated organizations of the Farm Bureau will also feature the day's program.

The Greene County Orchestra under the direction of W. R. Sayre, and who have proven popular in the past, will again have prominent place on the program.

Farmers from every part of Greene County are expected to attend this annual agricultural event.

THEATRE NOTES

The Shirley Grey Players which opened with stock production at The Fairbanks Theatre, Springfield, last week were given an ovation at every performance. The entire company is far above the average and theatre-goers state without hesitation that they are on a par with many of the prominent road shows. Their production this week is a comedy entitled "Just Married" and furnishes an opportunity to present for the first time in Springfield their second lady, Dorothy Lord and second man Mr. Day Keene.

Next week unquestionably will be a great week in the history of the Shirley Grey players because they are to present the world's famous mystery thriller, "The Cat and The Canary." It will also mark the very first time that this epoch making play, which made millions of its producers and authors has been seen upon the stock stage.

The very title of the play is sufficient guarantee that patrons of the Fairbanks Theatre are in for the best entertainment ever devised, for the fame and popularity of "The Cat and The Canary" are well known to everybody in this community, as well as in every other community in the United States.

"The Cat and The Canary" has been such a sensational success, not only in New York where it ran uninterruptedly for two solid years at the National Theatre, but in every other city, because of its wonderful combination of thrills, horror, comedy and one of the prettiest romances ever written for the stage.

tion and those who would smuggle commodities into the country. This dry amendment is a vital part in the fundamental law of our land as the sections of our constitution which pertain to customs and importation.

"Make it primarily the duty of this federal department to enforce the dry law and do not leave so much responsibility to the various state or local governments. When the offender is made to realize that it is a law of the federal government that he is disobeying and not a city ordinance or state law then even the most lawless will hesitate to break the law. This is the attitude of the whole body of American citizens today. When the federal government speaks, they obey. Then organize the corps of enforcing officers under the federal government, supported with rigid fines, confiscations and imprisonment.

"The remaining parts of this scheme, although they are aids, are not vital to the enforcement organization. They are supports and props for the Department of Public Welfare as a whole and therefore cannot be separated from it.

"The Bureau of Pure Food Supervision falls naturally and logically into this class of governmental activities. Economy in government can be practiced by making the enforcement officers of this department in part the same as in the bureau pertaining to alcohol and drugs.

"The fourth and last suggested bureau of this department is the Bureau of Public Health. The work of this division correlates so vitally with the duties of all of the preceding departments that it cannot be omitted from our plan. Its province would be to work in conjunction with all of the forces in this whole department to make the best health conditions for our citizens from the schoolroom to the factory, from the home to the office building, and from food production to food consumption."
